

THE FOUNDATION

Every week more than 9,500 people visit the Main Library and two branches (West End and Bay Farm Island). Clearly Alameda's libraries are integral parts of the community -- 47,000 individuals in Alameda have active library cards (that's nearly 65% of Alameda residents!) They come to read, do Internet research, finish their homework, attend cultural and community programs, meet a friend at Dewey's cafe and much more.

The private funds the Alameda Free Library Foundation raises go into a growing endowment, which spins off a significant contribution directly to the libraries each year. The funds are critical to keeping our communities' libraries technologically up-to-date and also supporting programs for children, teens and adults. With your support, the Alameda Free Library Foundation can build a base of private financial support that will continue to sustain the libraries well into the future.

LIBRARY NAMING OPPORTUNITIES

Make Your Support Permanent

Become a lasting part of the Alameda Free Library's future – and make the libraries places where we remember and celebrate individuals in our community. The renovation and grand reopenings of both the West End and Bay Farm Island library branches offer fresh opportunities to name shelves, stacks, furnishings and works of art.

Remember and celebrate family members, friends, teachers, organizations or special occasions through this unique opportunity. Many people have participated in the program at the Main Library since its construction in 2006.

Donations to the Alameda Free Library Foundation add to an endowment that provides an annual gift to the Library as well as shorter term contributions to support a variety of programs for children, teens and adults.
